Logan Smith, 58, former East Liverpool potter and stage hand, under indictment for first degree murder in the death of Mrs. Blanche Haines, his common-law wife, at their home near Harrisville, Harrison county, Thanksgiving Day, will go on trial at Cadiz, on or about February 15.

Prisoner Without Funds.
Common Pleas Judge George Cnanga has named ex-Prosecuting Attorney Barclay W. Moore and Attorney Victor Rowland, both of Cadiz, to defend Smith, who, it is claimed, is without funds to engage counsel.

Smith claims he shot in self-defense after the woman attacked him with a butcher knife following their Thanksgiving dinner. When arrested Smith showed a cut on his breast, alleged to have been inflicted by the Haines woman.

Smith and the woman conducted a roadside lunch stand near Harrisville, their home adjoining the place...

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE sailed to Havana harbor on the battleship Texas, conveyed by six destroyers—their official job being to keep off submarines and torpedo boats. If it had been real war, the president would have gone in a submarine or a flying ship—never in a dangerous floating steel target. The expensive battleship would not have been sent out of its snug harbor and the destroyers "would have been busy dodging destruction from the air." Battleships are magnificently impressive, and as obsolete as the gilded six-horse coach in which King George rides to open Parliament.

SOME good news about government flying machines at last. We may eventually realize that the richest nation should develop the only defense really important—fighting airplanes and destructive submarines.

OUR government airships flew, non-stop, to Managua. And a real air fighting air unit is to "co-operate" with the battle fleet in the Pacific. Two airplane carriers, able to launch 100 airplanes each, will be part of the Pacific fleet. And the Navy says it is determined to "maintain supremacy of the air at sea."

THE only fighting at sea, henceforth, is to be the air. And to talk of airships "co-operating" with a battle fleet, is like talking of high powered cannon co-operating with bows and arrows. If war came, the fliers would have to protect the battleships.

THIS news from Washington should sink into the national mind. At Panama an obsolete 5,000-ton ship was used for a target. A "preliminary bombardment" was ordered, six pursuit planes, dropping little 25-pound bombs, supposed to be of value only

SEVEN DISTRICT SCHOOLS MAY ENTER ORATORICAL CONTEST

All aboard for the fifth national and third international oratorical contest, in which students of secondary schools, are eligible to compete!

An East Liverpool, Wellsville, Salineville, Lisbon, Chester, Newell or Midland student may win the Ohio contest, which is being conducted by the East Liverpool Review and other Brush-Moore newspapers, and thus be one of the eight contestants who will enter the national finals in Washington and, irrespective of the result in the national capital, given a free trip to Europe.

One hundred and fifty dollars in prizes—$75 for first place, $50 for second and $25 for third—will be awarded in the East Liverpool district contest which is to be held in East Liverpool. Winners of zone eliminations in the respective cities, towns and villages in the newspaper territory will compete here.

Subjects of Orations.

All of the parochial and private schools which teach the studies corresponding to those in the four-year public high schools, likewise are eligible in the contest, and have been invited to compete.

The subjects upon which the students may prepare and deliver their orations are "The Development of the Constitution" or "The Present Significance of the Constitution."

Any student in any secondary school, who will not have passed his, or her, 19th birthday anniversary on February 1, this year, is eligible to compete.

The Ohio oratorical champion, in addition to receiving a cup emblematic of the achievement, will go to Troy, N. Y., there to compete in a zone contest for the privilege of proceeding to Washington to compete for the national championship, as well as to compete against representatives of seven foreign nations for the international prize.

Should the Ohio champion be fortunate enough to win the zone contest in Troy, he, or she, will be one of the eight students to make a ten weeks' tour of Europe, with all expenses paid, a most alluring trophy at which to aim.

District Contests.

The National Oratorical contest is sponsored by leading newspapers throughout the country. In

VOTE EXPLAINED

Clerk's Records Show Measures Blocked on Suspension.

Legislation increasing the salary of the judge of the municipal court and the service-safety director have been passed on first reading and will be considered on second reading at a special meeting of the municipal legislative body to be held during the latter part of this week or early next week. It was announced today.

As a result of a misunderstanding the proposal to increase the salary of Service-Safety Director J. W. Moore from $1,800 to $2,400 per year, considered by council at Monday night's meeting, was yesterday reported to have been defeated.

Examination of Clerk G. A. Shone's records at the city hall today showed the measure to have been passed by a unanimous vote on first reading, then halted, vote of 4 to 3, when an effort was made to suspend the rules. Members Altman, Ferguson, Fleming and Lindell voted against it, while Councilmen Green, Hughes and Poole supported the motion.

County Pays $2,000.

City's share of the salary of Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley shall be increased from $1,800 to $2,400 per year under the terms of the measure which was also adopted on first reading at Monday night's meeting.

The county pays $2,000 and the township $200 of the present $4,000 stipend.

If this ordinance is passed and becomes a law, the county will be asked to appropriate another $400 for the judge's salary, bringing it up to $5,000.

Solons Altman, Ferguson, Fleming and Lindell voted for the ordinance on first reading, while Green, Hughes and Poole opposed it. Hughes and Poole blocked further consideration of the ordinance when they opposed suspension of the rules, which requires a three-fourths vote.

Business Session of Conference.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.

HAVANA, Jan. 18.—An appeal to the statesmen of the 21 Latin-American countries to forget hate, ambition and rivalry and concentrate upon friendship and cooperation marked the first business session of the sixth Pan-American congress today.

It came from Dr. Rafael Martinez Ortiz, secretary of state for Cuba, who addressed the conference in the role of host to the gathering.

"Delegates," he said, "you are about to commence your labors. The program, drafted with the help of all, permits the hope for excellent results.

TOOK DOCTOR'S ADVICE —COLD GONE NEXT DAY

Many Here Find Way to End Colds Overnight at Home by Hospital Tested Method

By taking the advice of her doctor and using a method that has relieved even the most extreme hospital cases, Miss Agnes L. White, like numbers of East Liverpool people, found the quickest way to get rid of a stuffy cold.

Miss White, for example, had neglected her cold several days in the hope that it would clear up of its own accord. Instead, it started settling in her nose passages and chest. She began to feel feverish, and finally called the clinic for advice, when her mother feared pneumonia.

Relief began almost immediately when doctors gave her the double doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a concentrated mixture of wild cherry, terpin hydrate and other ingredients used in treating even the most extreme hospital cases. She felt its comforting warmth instantly—from her nose passages deep down into her chest. In a few hours the redness of her eyes was gone; her nose passages began to clear up and in another day or so, doctors report, the cold was completely gone.

"WE"

CHAPTER X.

The next day conditions were ideal but Klink wanted to go to a dance that evening, and the day after, the wind was blowing from the opposite direction. Our remaining time was passing rapidly and we were both anxious to get to California before my return to Brooks Field. If we could get the plane to a larger field six miles south of Camp Wood we would have room to take-off with a full load of gasoline.

One of the town streets was wide enough to take-off from, provided I could get a forty-four foot wing between the two telephone poles forty-six feet apart and brush through a few branches on each side of the road later on. We pushed the ship over to the middle of the street and I attempted to take-off. The poles were about fifty feet ahead and just before passing between them there was a rough spot in the street. One of the wheels got in a rut and I missed by three inches of the right wing tip.

The pole swung the plane around and the nose crashed through the wall of a hardware store, knocking pots, pans and pitchforks all over the interior.

The merchant and his son thought that an earthquake was in progress and came running out into the street. He was highly pleased to find an airplane half-way into his place of business and not only refused to accept anything for damages, but would not even allow us to have the wall repaired. He said the advertising value was much more than the destruction.

The greatest damage to the plane was a broken propeller, although from that time on it always carried left rudder. We wired for a new propeller and a can of dope from Houston and in a few days were hedging-hopping the mountain tops in true Canuck fashion on our way west.

A Canuck, or J.N.C., is nothing more or less than a Canadian Jenny and while it is lighter and performs a little better than a Jenny, it is subject to the same characteristics of being able to just miss most everything it passes over.

We passed over the Rio Grande and cut through a corner of Mexico, then landed on one of the Army emergency fields at Pumpville and induced the officer in charge to sell us enough gasoline to continue our flight.

Dusk overtook us near Maxon, Texas, and we landed between the cactuses and Spanish dagger west of the town, which consisted of a section house and three old box cars of the type used throughout the Southwest for housing the Mexican section hands.

The section boss was living alone. He was soon to be relieved and stationed in some more populated locality. We spent the night with him and in the morning cleared a runway for the ship. Maxon was quite a distance above sea level, and as the air was less dense, an airplane required a longer distance to take-off in. There was small mountain on the east end of the field and the land stopped upward toward the west. We worked until midday cutting sagebrush and cactus. There was a light breeze from the west and the air was hot and rough. After using three-quarters of the runway the Canuck rose about four feet above the ground but stopped then, and when the end of the runway was passed the wings and landing gear scraped along on the sagebrush. As soon as we picked up a little extra flying speed, another clump of sage brush would slow the ship down again until, after we had gone about two hundred yards, a large Spanish dagger plant passed through the front spar of the lower left wing. After being cut off by the internal brace wires, it remained firmly planted in the center of the outer bay. We landed immediately and found the plane to be undamaged except for a fourteen inch gap in the spar and a number of rips in the wing fabric.

The engineer on a passing freight train had seen us go down and stopped long enough for Klink to climb on board. It was agreed that Klink would go to the nearest place where he could get the material to make repairs, while I remained with the plane. We were thirty-two miles from the nearest store and as the section boss was leaving that day for his new location, I walked a mile and a half to a ranch house, where I arranged for accommodations until we were ready to fly again.

Klink went all the way to El Paso before he could get any dope and wing fabric. Meanwhile I spent the day with the plane, and a large part of the night following the ranchers

Milton Sills made a study of conduct unbecoming to an officer and a gentleman, and practiced some of it in "Hard-Boiled Haggerty."

This picture, a Charles Brabin production for First National Pictures, now at the American theatre, provides a unique characterization for Sills. Grim, relentless and heroic "ace" in sky battle above the German lines, he hounds in their search for wildcats and panthers. They had treed a large cat the night before while we were staying in the section house, but were unable to duplicate their performance for my benefit. About all I succeeded in accomplishing after following them for hours, was to pull one dog out of a wire fence which had caught his foot as he jumped over.

Klink returned with a can of pigmented dope, two lengths of crating board, some nails and screws, a can of glue, several balls of chalkline, and enough fabric to replace the torn wing covering. We borrowed a butcher knife, a needle and thread, and an axe from the rancher, and set in to make the Canuck airworthy once more. We hewed the crating down roughly to size, cut it into proper lengths with an old hacksaw blade from our tool kit, and finished it off with the butcher knife. In a short time we had constructed a second box splice similar to the one at Pensacola, but a few feet farther out on the spar, but a few feet farther out on the

We had just enough dope to cover the splice, so the fabric in the outer bay was left undoped; and after we had sewed up the longer rents caused by the sage-brush, we were once more ready to take the air.

It was too near the fifteenth of March to continue west, so we decided to take the Canuck back to San Antonio, where we would finish off the repairs and Klink would continue to California alone.

CHAPTER 3.

Further up town, out of the roaring forties, in the seedy seventies, just off Broadway, Billie Moore awoke with a start in her narrow twin bed as the brassy alarm clock buzzed with the irate complaint of an alarm clock that has seen long service and is now rather tired.

Sighing, Billie turned her young face to the wall, mumbling some incoherent protest, her masses of bronze curls ruffled like a full-blown chrysanthemum whipped by the wind. "Aw, gee," she whimpered, drugged with sleep, as the persistent alarm clock rang and rang. She pulled the pillow around her little ears and drew up her legs, curling herself into a tiny ball.

From the narrow bed's twin came another girl's voice, husky with sleep and cigarettes. "Aw, shut up!" directed at the alarm clock which proceeded handle, bottles of perfume, a box of pink powder, more letters, telegram and a bunch of violets, dying in a jelly glass of water. On the muddy-gray walls were pinned "glossies" of friends in the profession—a girl with a baby stare, a man with a small black mustache and sleek black hair, and one Roy Lane singing a Mammy song on his knees with arms stretched out in passionate appeal.

Two wardrobe trunks spilled their contents from drawers left open. Confusion everywhere, extending into the clothes closet and the bath room with its combination kitchenette, the gas plate adjacent to the bath tub. Laundered and shrunken silk stockings, flesh and gun metal, were hanging up to dry in there, and fluffy bits of lace and silk called handkerchiefs.

The silence existed for some minutes longer, and then Billie called across to Maze, sweetly shrill voice muffled by the bedclothes. "Gotta get up, Maze!"

There was no reply and so Billie called again: "Mazie! Gotta get up!" There was a snort from the other bed. "Huh?"

"Gotta get up."

"Gee, I don't wanna—"

"Then don't. Your date ain't with Vanderbilt, is it?"

"No, but I promised Roy—" She struggled up higher on the pillow.

"Aw, that St. Paul hick! What's a promise to him? Now, if it was Steve Crandall—"

Billie Moore sat up higher; rested her chin on her hunched up knees, drapping her arms around them.

"But—but the act, Mazie, I oughter rehearse."

Mazie rolled over so that she could squint at Billie. She was a tall, well-formed blonde with bobbed hair and a face that was slightly hard—a large, generous mouth, eyes that were searching and quick to flash anger but quick to soften with a crude understanding, too. The bloom of youth that was Billie's had gone from her hollow face although Maze was not old in years. She was only in experience, the experience that Broadway gives so prematurely to the youth that it draws to itself like a mighty magnet.

Mazie gazed at her perched up in bed—at the fascinating tangle of bronze curls, rioting like April flowers over her white forehead, and she shook her head slowly. "Get wise to yourself, Baby," she drawled. "There's better things waitin' for you on Broadway than Roy Lane an' Company. Don't go countin' on a thing like that. It's only a pipin' dream. Now, with that pretty face of yours an' those nifty legs—"

Billie turned big, misty eyes on her girl friend. "You don't mean I should go gold-diggin', do you, Mazie?" she asked, seriously.

Maybe not in those words, dearie. You can call it anything you like, only keep the same technique. It's the payin' kind."

She laughed, reaching out for a cigarette as she struggled up to a sitting position also; lit the cigarette and inhaled deeply. Exhaling through the nose, she resumed: "Trust me, kid. I won't give you the wrong steer. It's what you can get out of 'em that really counts in this rich man's town. The best of 'em's only workin' for you for something you wanta keep, so why not work them for something they wanta keep? That's only fair, ain't it? Sure it is! It's turkey I'm talkin', Baby, not applesauce."

Billie looked dubious and not exactly convinced. "Well—I guess so," she said, "but Roy Lane's been awful nice to me—sorta took me under his wing when I was alone in New York, and the act's workin' up pretty good, considerin' everything."

"Yeah, considerin'—" Mazie drawled again. "Gee, girlie, you make me mad. Don't be inferior. Why shouldn't a boob like Lane be nice to you? You're beautiful girlie, an' you're virtuous. That's a rare combination these days! I don't suppose you know that, do you?"

"Well—well it ain't my fault if I'm—if I'm pretty an—an' virtuous, is it?" Billie felt that she must defend herself although she didn't know exactly why.

Mazie looked at her rather piteously. "I don't know about the pretty part but the other—No, I guess that ain't your fault either."

"What do you mean?" Billie flared, the Irish of her flashing in her big smudged eyes.

"Nuthin'. Get up if you're goin' to. Don't keep Personality waitin'!" And Mazie flopped back under the covers, chuckling a little to herself.

PASTOR RAPS DEATH PENALTY AS DETERRENT IN CRIME WAVE

Rev. J. B. Edie Scores
Hickmans and Grays.

HITS "BURNING"

"What Is Man?" Orchard Grove Church Topic.

"The biggest business of the world is the building of God's kingdom," declared Rev. J. B. Edie, Youngstown pastor, at revival services in the Orchard Grove Methodist Episcopal church last evening. His subject was the psalmistic interrogation, "What Is Man?"

Following a preliminary musical program, directed by Charles A. Price, a solo, "The Beautiful Garden of Prayer," was sung by Clifford Smith, a member of the congregation's choir.

A testimony period preceded the sermon by Rev. Mr. Edie.

Women of the church, following the suggestion of Rev. E. A. Conn, the pastor, will visit Northside homes in the interest of the series of meetings now in progress.

"The prospect of business in 1928 seems to be the chief subject of topic by almost every one," asserted Rev. Mr. Edie. "They aver that renewed activity by Ford, General Motors, the Dodge and other industrial leaders will be certain to bring prosperity. But they think nothing or little of what should be done to underwrite the upbuilding of the greatest business in the world—God's kingdom."

Service clubs, capital punishment, evolution, church lethargy and crime were discussed in turn by him in a comprehensive evaluation of what man is and the mindfulness of the Almighty for him.

"I am sure God hides behind the battlements of heaven that He might not see the horror attending the criminal departure of the Hickmans, the Judd Grays and the husband killing Perry, O., woman he said. "And yet what does it avail to kill the perpetrators of these terrible killings. Two wrongs will not make a thing right. The dead cannot be restored."

"Life imprisonment that will be carried out should answer all purposes of society safety. I am not sure but that the Commonwealth of New York will have responsibility for the tragic execution spectacles of last week which worried an entire nation by reason of the details given out.

"Ohio put a way a boy who appeared as if he were not of sound mind. I have witnessed the 'burning' of murderer for that is what electrocution really is and I am opposed to it. I am sure that the New Testament doctrines are against that sort of a thing."

Crime now gives a person national recognition. Rev. Mr. Edie said, "I am comparatively unknown yet I could be known the world over the morning following the commitment of an atrocity. What ails us as a people that such a situation can obtain?"

He declared his inability to subscribe to the evolution theory of the origin of man. "I do not believe my ancestors hung in bamboo trees in Africa," he observed. "I agree with Billy Sunday who wants to know how all the baboons, monkeys and gorillas have not evolved into men as did their predecessors."

Best Way to Loosen Stubborn Cough

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes quickly, lessens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer use crystallized honey instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love it.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, palm oil, guaiacol, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

EX-POLICEMAN ADMITS HE IS PYROMANIAC

Washington Man Says He Started Two Major Fires.

FIVE UNSOLVED

Prisoner's Confession Blames "Irresistible Impulse."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—John J. Fisher, an ex-policeman, who has confessed, authorities said, to starting two of the seven major fires which yesterday swept the city, explained today that he was compelled to set the blazes by an "irresistible impulse."

He was formerly a psychopathic patient at Walter Reed Army hospital.

Fisher withheld more than 12 hours of grilling questioning before he confessed, police disclosed. His confession was given to police in a written statement.

The confession stated that Fisher, after he heard the engines rushing to the Woolworth fire, the first, he followed them in his automobile and became obsessed with an impulse to "set fire to something." He went to the McDowell Brothers' feed store in Eckington Place, Fisher added, and set fire to the place by dropping matches over the first floor of the building. After the fire was well under way, Fisher said he drove to 14th and W Streets and, breaking through a window, set ablaze the Lank Woodworking company plant by again throwing matches on the floor.

Fisher was not sure about the other fires because, his confession said, he was in a stupor from time to time from his "maniacal craze" and does not remember his movements.

A revised estimate by authorities today placed the damage from all the fires at about $100,000. During the excitement of yesterday they placed the loss at $500,000.

BEGG ENTERS GOVERNOR RACE

Turner and Lewis Recently Filed for Place.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 18.—Formal announcement of the candidacy of Congressman James T. Beggs, Sandusky, for the Republican nomination for governor of Ohio, was published here today.

Attorney General Edward C. Turner and former Lieut. Gov. Charles H. Lewis, Harpster, recently announced that they are candidates for the G. O. P. gubernatorial nomination.

Congressman Beggs, 49, is serving his fifth term as congressman from the 13th Ohio district. He managed the campaign which resulted in the selection of Congressman Nicholas Longworth, Cincinnati, as speaker of the national house of representatives.

Touching upon what he regarded as issues during the coming state campaign, Beggs promised to eliminate extravagance and waste in road-building and upkeep. He pledged himself to impartial enforcement of all laws, favored development and conservation of natural resources, and asserted that labor should share equally in the general prosperity of the state.

McCutcheon, who was known as the "Linen king."

The ceremony took place in Christ Episcopal church, with the Rev. Frederick C. Budlong, rector of the church officiating. The wedding was quiet and apparently only by accident the fact was revealed.

Oratorical Contest

Ohio the Brush-Moore group, which includes, besides The Review, The Canton Repository, The Steubenville Herald-Star, and The Salem News, was designated to conduct the competitions for selection of the Buckeye champion.

The state has been properly zoned, and The Review's particular task just now, with the assistance of the school superintendents, principals and history, civic and English teachers, is to select individual champions. That is the first step in the competition.

Once the school has selected its oratorical champion, district contests are to be conducted, until there is left remaining in The Review territory only the one orator, who will be The Review district champion. That boy or girl then will compete with like orators from the other sections of the state, to determine the state champion.

There are cash awards for the winner of each of the newspaper championships.

Added to this, The Review will defray all the expenses of its district champion to Canton for the state elimination contest. All the expenses of the state champion to Troy, N. Y., also will be defrayed by the Brush-Moore Newspapers and if the Ohio champion continues to win, his or her expenses also will be defrayed.

All Expenses Paid.

In other words, once the orator wins in a given newspaper's territory, any future expense incurred will be defrayed either by The Review or the Brush-Moore Newspapers.

This will include the expenses of a companion, to be either the student's teacher or a parent.

Each school in the competition must have its school champion selected not later than Friday, March 16. The several school orators in each of the zones will then meet at East Liverpool on Friday, March 30, when the elimination of all but the district champion will be carried out.

The district champion, then, will meet the other newspaper champions of Ohio, also in Canton, on the following Friday, April 27, for selection of the Ohio oratorical champion.

The Ohio champion then will go to Troy, N. Y., on Friday, May 11, to participate in the national semifinals, and if declared the victor there, will move on to Washington for the national finals on Friday, May 25.

Should the Ohio champion win the national contest, he or she will return to Washington on October 13, for the international competition.

In the meantime all participants in the national finals will have made a ten weeks' trip to Europe.

10-minute Oration.

These orations are limited to ten minutes for presentation. They are delivered by the student precisely as any other orator would deliver them—and in the presence of spectators interested in this type of work within the schools.

They will co-operate to the fullest extent with the school authorities and the students entered in the contest.

The principals and teachers will have been informed within another few days of the intimate details of the contest so that when it finally is under full swing there will be no hitch anywhere.

It is up to the students in this territory to develop an orator who will be able to talk down the other newspaper finalists who will come on April 27 to contest for the state championship.

In the international contest this year are England, France, Germany, Mexico, Canada, Japan and Cuba.

First Contest in 1924.

The National Oratorical contest was first held in 1924, and was participated in with enthusiasm by high schools throughout the nation.

The final meeting that year was presided over by the president of the American Bar association, and addressed by President Coolidge.

At one of the major meetings of the national organization sponsoring the contests President Coolidge said he considered it one of the greatest competitions ever held in the world.

By 1926 the contests had become international. Under the plan of expansion there was no sacrifice of the contest's American characteristics. On the contrary, the same subjects, all having to do with the Constitution of the United States, were adhered to.

Judges of the National and International contest will be five members of the United States supreme court.

The committee sponsoring the contests in the United States this year is made up of Frank B. Noves, Washington Star; Adolph S. Ochs, New York Times; Walter A. Strong, Chicago Daily News; William L. McLean Jr., Philadelphia Bulletin; George B. Long, Kansas City Star, and Harry Chandler, Los Angeles Times.

The leading newspapers of the United States are promoting the contests this year.

The object is to intensify study of American history and the constitution, to enlighten high school students on phases of Americanization which they have not yet absorbed, and to bring about a relationship of friendly rivalry between schools in scholarships as well as athletics.

URGES DEATH FOR HICKMAN

Outraged Public Opinion Demands Execution, Says Attorney.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 18.—Citing the Hotelling, Ionia, Mich., crime as an example, James P. Costello, assistant district attorney of Los Angeles, today predicted outraged public opinion will demand the death penalty for William Edward Hickman. "The execution of Hickman is necessary to halt the wave of crime which followed the disclosures in the Marion Parker case," Costello said. "I am confident the jury which tries Hickman next week will give the death penalty to prevent similar crimes."

Hickman is here representing the state of California in depositions taken for the defense of Hickman and Welby Hunt, accomplice in another Los Angeles murder, Jerome Walsh, youthful defense attorney for Hickman, left today for Los Angeles armed with depositions to substantiate an insanity plea for his client.

STRAND OFFERS STORY OF WEST

"Lightning," by Zane Grey, is Screen Feature.

"Lightning" a Tiffany Production picturization of the same name by Zane Grey was the feature picture attraction which opened at the Strand theatre yesterday for a two-day run. Here is a Western story that has an altogether different twist insofar as stories of this locale are concerned. Among the cast of players the acting of the horse "Lightning" by name, stands out as one of the highlights of a highly dramatic picture in which the romance of two cowboys and two cabaret performers is paralleled by the romance of a wild stallion for a shy and restive mare Bess.

The various roles are capably acted by Jobyna Ralson, Margaret Livingston, Robert Frazer, Quinn Williams, Pat Harmon and "Bull" Montana. The photographic scenes of the rugged West are a delight while the direction of the entire story is above criticism. It is one of the best pictures of its kind seen here in some time.

is remediable," says a statement of the council presenting statistics revealing that fully 25 per cent of the 24,000,000 school children in the United States have manifest defects of vision and other symptoms of eyestrain which hamper materially their school work; that 60 per cent of the 42,000,000 gainfully employed persons in the United States have defective vision, and that one-tenth of all the industrial accidents are the 200,000 injuries to the eye that occur annually in the industries of the country.

In the industries of the country. More than $6,000,000 in compensation was awarded in one state alone for 4,689 lost eyes, being almost half the total amount awarded for all classes of permanent injuries during a period of eight years, it is stated. Another state awarded $1,000,000 in compensation in one year for injuries to the eyes.

"Few people appreciate the importance of good illumination," says the council. "This is easily explained when it is realized that adequate artificial lighting has been possible of attainment only within the past few years. There has been a greater development in lighting during the past 50 years than in all the ages since man first picked a brand from the fire to light his way.

"This unparalleled increase in artificial illumination has brought an additional burden which the human eye has not quickly learned to carry and it is not strange that the imperfections of the refraction of the eye should become so apparent and so clearly reveal the need for conservation of vision.

"Indifference to the need of good illumination will continue until the public becomes more generally informed of its value and of the danger from poor lighting."

Sage Tea Turns Gray Hair Dark

By SHIRLEY BLAKE

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture. You can get this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for only 75 cents, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and

WELLSVILLE CITY NEEDS FOR 1928 TOTAL $149,872

APPROPRIATION MEASURE VOTED BY COUNCILMEN

Solons Set Aside Extra Fund for Hammond Park.

SALARIES LISTED

Appeal for Aid Made by Park Commissioners.

Ordinance calling for the appropriation of $149,872 for municipal operation for the current year, was approved by Wellsville council last night as an emergency measure on third and final reading.

The grand total was increased prior to its adoption by an additional $200 for aid at Hammond park, the tract of land given to the city a number of years ago by Harry Hammond as a recreation spot for Wellsville citizens.

The appropriation totals follow:

General fund—Council, $980; clerk, $25; mayor, $1,925.75; auditor, treasurer, $550; solicitor, $1,200; elections, $275; legal advertising, $525; other judicial, $160; premium on officials bonds, $100. (In cases of municipal employees, totals opposite their names include expenses as well as salaries).

Safety fund—Administration, $358.20; fire and police telegraph alarm system, $100; police department, regular and special officers, $9,230; outdoor relief, $650; fire department, $7,190.

Health—General administration, $2,800; sanitary, $448; quarantine, $87.

Service—General administration,

$368.20; engineering, $575; street cleaning, $225; street lighting, $8,700; garbage, $1,500; sewers, etc., $550.

Miscellaneous funds—Water works, $8,633.60; auto license, $5,000; gasoline tax fund, $6,000; firemen's indemnity, $350; park fund, $600; public buildings and land, $1,250; cemetery, $4,085; library, $1,230; sinking fund, $49,450.

Dr. J. S. McCulloch and C. J. Krause of the Hammond park board of commissioners, appeared before the council prior to the adoption of the appropriation ordinance and the former, pointing out what had already been done toward beautifying the park, largely through personal and individual efforts, expressed the opinion that the city could co-operate to a greater extent than it has by increasing its appropriation. This was acted on favorably by the solons after the ordinance was read.

CITY PROTESTS BUS EXTENSION

Will Notify Public Utilities Commission of Action.

Acting on the suggestion of Mayor W. L. Fogo, city council last night enacted a resolution protesting the proposed extension of the Salineville-Wellsville bus line from Wellsville to East Liverpool.

A certificate of extension has been filed by the bus line operators with the public utilities commission and will be called up for a hearing on January 19.

The mayor pointed out that the present street car system is providing an excellent transportation schedule between the two cities. "The service we are getting now is as good as any in the country," he said.

Mayor Fogo also said that the interests of local business houses would be served better if the bus line deposit ited its passengers in Wellsville.

Notice of council's action protesting the extension will be telegraphed to the public utilities commission.

Announce Birth of Son.
Mr. and Mrs. Donald Metts, Clark avenue, announce the birth of a baby son. The new arrival has been named Donald Andrew. The mother was formerly Miss Helen Keenan, of Wellsville.

Dr. J. S. McCulloch and C. J. Krause of the Hammond park board of commissioners, appeared before the council prior to the adoption of the appropriation ordinance and the former, pointing out what had already been done toward beautifying the park, largely through personal and individual efforts, expressed the opinion that the city could co-operate to a greater extent than it has by increasing its appropriation. This was acted on favorably by the solons after the ordinance was read.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The industrial stocks were unusually dull and sluggish in the early trading today, carrying into this session the inactivity and indecision that made yesterday's market the dullest full session since last July. A decline in call loan rates to 4 per cent. Stimulated speculative buying near the end of first hour, and moderate price gains were recorded in some sections of the list. Pool activity has been somewhat "toned down" and outside buying demand curtailed.

Operations of the steel's corporation's mills were reported at 78 per cent of capacity and the independent's at 70 per cent, an increase of 3 per cent over last week. An increase in steel requirements was reported at interior producing centers, and inquiries are pouring in from important consumers. Copper and textile markets were fairly active, and at least cotton was able to hold its own under liberal offerings. The rumble of the "oil price war" among the powerful units in the petroleum trade was again heard, and most of the oil shares declined.

Beyond the aggressive pool activity in a few of the specialties, including Texas Glut Sulphur and Radio, the market was featureless.

Rickard Frowns On Dempsey's Plans For "Warm-up" Battle

Would Prove Hazard, Avers Promoter, To Championship Bout

Possibility of Injury to Ex-champion, or Mediocre Showing, Involved in Jack's Suggested Practice Bout.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Jack Dempsey may talk two great fights this year but he will fight only one of them, if Tex Rickard has anything to do with it, which may be characterized as a distinct possibility.

This was one of the impressions the writer gained in an interview with Tex Rickard today. Another was that our John had been reclining a piece that was not in the original script when he informed the International News Service in Los Angeles yesterday that he wanted a warm-up bout en route to the third episode of the Tunney serial, now intended for a June release.

Rickard simulated astonishment when told that Dempsey had declared in favor of warming up for something that never has been actually cold since the seventh round at Chicago. This apparently is not being done, at least not since the other evening when Sharkey and Heaney warmed up the situation to such effect that both went into cold storage until further notice.

Two prospective eliminators were thoroughly eliminated on that occasion and, while Rickard carelessly neglected to say as much, there is no doubt that he has very little intention of permitting the same thing to happen in Dempsey's case. Our John, quite apparently, was talking gum arabic yesterday and my guess is that Rickard will tell him so as soon as he gets him on the telephone. The Dempsey-Tunney fight is the only big shot Rickard has now and it must be protected, like a gambling concession or brook trout in the closed season.

Warm-up Bout May Ruin It.

It constitutes one fight for Mr. Tunney. Rickard must have two, if Mr. Tunney's word of mouth is to be relied upon. It may be assumed, therefore, that everybody would be very wroth, Mr. Tunney in particular, if Rickard bobbed up with exactly no fights when the time comes. This can happen very well if our John goes around calling signals that are not in the code.

For one thing, he could be great in his warm-up thing and still ruin the continuity with a broken hand, provided it was his own. For another, he might be terrible and the same effect would be achieved. For a third, either himself or his opponent of necessity must be eliminated and where would the second Tunney fight be then? Quite so, hemmingway; right in the garlic.

Supposed the opponent won. He then would go in with Tunney and probably would lose. They couldn't produce Dempsey for a September fight against a man who had beaten the man who had beaten him. The same logic applies three ways; that is, to any situation that might arise in connection with the three men in question. It means that, if we are to have two championship fights this summer, we must have two contenders and the only way to make certain that we won't is to match the pair of them.

This could be done. But it mightn't be a bad idea to bet all the jugs in Jug-Slovakia that it won't.

ILLINOIS RING RULES CHANGED

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Sweeping changes in the conduct of professional boxing in Illinois were indicated today following a meeting of the Illinois Athletic commission.

One of the changes will call for public announcement of individual decisions of judges and referee in all future windup bouts. Heretofore the public has remained in the dark on how the voters were cast in questionable decisions.

Several new rules pertaining to fouls and "stalling" have also been incorporated into the code, according to Chairman Paul Prehn.

PROTHO TO PILOT MEMPHIS SQUAD

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—J. T. Protho, prospective third baseman for the Cubs during the coming season, has been released by the Bruin management so that he may manage the Memphis team of the Southern association.

President Veeck of the Cubs said that the management here did not wish to stand in the way of any player who is given a chance to fill a better job. Protho was obtained by draft from the Portland club of the Pacific league.

Three More Games Added To Cage Bill

Hurstmen Book Campbell, Cambridge, Martins Ferry.

FACULTY Manager Decker of the high school today announced the addition of three games to the Blue and White basketball schedule for the remainder of the season.

Two of the three are scheduled on the local court.

On February 17, the Hurstmen will entertain Campbell Memorial high, of Campbell, near Youngstown. Campbell, it will be remembered, produced a champion in the annual district amateur tournament here last spring and if their high school timber is as good, proportionately as the town's other teams, they should be worthy foemen of the Hurstmen.

Cambridge will appear on the local court on March 2, and on the following night, the Blue will go to Martins Ferry.

The game with Campbell merely fills a hole in the schedule but the Cambridge and Martins Ferry contests are made possible by the change in the eastern Ohio scholastic tournament dates.

Last spring the tournament came along about the second and third. This spring it will be held back until March 9 and 10. As a result, teams within the tournament jurisdiction are given an opportunity to tack on a couple of extra games.

Sharkey Defi Won't Impede Title Affair

Tunney Has Two Months Yet in Which to Sign Articles.

AT DANVILLE, Ill.—Less Marner, Chicago heavyweight, knocked out Harry Hartwell, second round.

AT CLEVELAND—Lope Tenorio, Manilla lightweight, outpointed Joe Glick of New York, 12 rounds.

Gaston Charles, French featherweight, knocked out Al Tripolt, of New York, first round.

Dave Adelman, Philadelphia bantamweight, outpointed Joey Ross of Detroit, 8 rounds.

Russell Bradford, Pontiac lightweight, and Frankie Gardina of Cleveland, drew, six rounds.

South Siberia is to have a new railway line costing nearly $800,000.

The six-months rule hitherto has not been enforced against heavyweight champions. If they meet a worthy challenger once a year they are not disturbed.

Sharkey is the first man to challenge for the heavyweight title in New York since Harry Wills began his long and unsuccessful pursuit of Dempsey in 1924.

DEACON SCOTT WITH READING

WELSH SINGERS SCORE SUCCESSLadies' Organization and Meighan Picture at Ceramic.

Gertrude Gronow and her famous Royal Welsh Lady Singers, who close a three-day engagement at the Ceramic theatre tonight, received enthusiastic ovations yesterday afternoon and evening.

The Welsh singers, who are appearing here in conjunction with the Thomas Meighan picture, "City Gone Wild," presented the first few numbers in their native Welsh costume and tall hats which makes a very quaint picture, and for the remainder of the program they appear in white evening gowns and scarlet capes. They offer an entirely new type of program, ranging from the popular songs of today to the perfectly presented "Misericordia" from "Il Trovatore." The voices are of exceptional quality, the high bell like sopranos, and the range and power of the deep round toned contraltos is marvelous, all blending into one perfect whole like the strains of a great organ.

Thomas Meighan has played in underworld stories before, but he has never had a crook vehicle as powerful or vivid as "The City Gone Wild." Parson's new melodrama.

Charles and Jules Furthman get screen credit for this unusual story of machine-gun battles and gang war, of politics and intrigue, of love and law and lust and duty. They have done nobly by Meighan, for it affords him opportunity for the most unusual characterization he has had in years. His career started in a crook play, "The Miracle Man," and he duplicates his earlier success in this new vehicle.

Not that the two pictures are alike, for they are not. "The Miracle Man" was a tale of regeneration and sentiment. "The City Gone Wild" is a harder story, a more realistic one, one more in keeping with these headlong times of metropolitan crime and its attendant misery.

James Cruze, who made "The Covered Wagon" and "Old Ironsides," directed this new Meighan picture, and undoubtedly his clever direction is shown as a bristling opening scene.

Love of a woman makes him a prosecuting attorney later in the story and the climax comes when he is faced with a seemingly insoluble problem. He learns that the girl's father is the hidden leader of the underworld forces, and thus faces the alternative of breaking his trust to the state or ruining the girl's life by exposing her father. It would not be fair to disclose the outcome, but it presents a smashing climax.

James Cruze, who made "The Covered Wagon" and "Old Ironsides," directed this new Meighan picture, and undoubtedly his clever direction is largely responsible for its success.
